Dear Sir or Madam,

my name is Ramón García-Ziemsen. I am the head of the journalistic training program at Germany's international broadcaster, Deutsche Welle.

We are looking for young people from all over the world interested in a comprehensive, exceptional quality journalism program with an international broadcaster. Candidates should have journalism experience or be passionate about technology/IT, economics or the sciences. We are looking for open-minded people full of creative ideas.

The DW editorial traineeship is paid, with a gross starting salary of approx. 1,600 Euros per month. As full-time employees, DW trainees are automatically eligible for German public health insurance. As our trainees move to Germany from abroad, we assist them at every step of the visa process.

The traineeship leads to employment in one of our departments in Bonn or Berlin.

Here is a link with all the information about the traineeship:

Furthermore it is important to check our language requirements on this website:

<http://www.dw.com/en/language-skills/a-17914161>

Applications are open between December 1, 2017 and January 29, 2018. Applications can only be submitted via the online system.

The direct link for the application can be found below:

We were wondering whether you could spread the information via your different channels. It would be great if these include your social media networks as well.

I would like to thank you for your cooperation.

If you have any other question, please not hesitate to contact us.

Best regards

DW Akademie
